Japan will have a new era soon. When the Emperor of Japan abdicates (steps down) on April 30, the Heisei era will come to an end. On May 1, his son, the Crown Prince, will become the next Emperor. That will be the beginning of the "Reiwa" era. The government announced the name yesterday morning. It comes from the Manyoshu, the oldest collection of Japanese poems. This is a change from the past. Other era names have come from Chinese. "Reika" means "good fortune" and "peace." May the new era bring everyone good fortune and peace!
